Growth in recent decades and investment in non-strategic assets such as Pirelli Broadband Solutions had led to Pirelli & C becoming fragmented. To rectify this, Pirelli chose to focus on its core industrial activities and transformed Pirelli back into a pure tyre company. This transformation was completed in 2010, by which time tyres represented 98% of total sales. The effective conclusion of this process and the achievement of 2011 targets a year ahead of schedule led Pirelli to define a new industrial plan.
